The Network now has added four country-specific sites in less than 6 months.

With the opening of the China, Germany, and India sites as well as the previously announced United Kingdom site, the Business Intelligence Network continues to solidify its leading position in global information delivery for business intelligence and data warehouse professionals.

"The cornerstones of the Network are to add value and deliver quality content to our executive level readers all over the world and to offer more innovative and targeted marketing vehicles to our large list of global advertisers. Successful media companies recognize that in order to serve readers, you must deliver high value, and we are thrilled to be leading the way in bringing information to people on a global level," said Shawn Rogers, Executive Editor of the Business Intelligence Network.

The United Kingdom site (www.BeyeNETWORK.co.uk), the first country-specific site launched by the Network, has continued to double in readership each month since its launch, and the Network expects similar success with the three new sites.
