

BidForGreen Announces Touring Solutions

Biodiesel logistics company announces new interface to keep bands green on the road

Crane, MO (PRWeb) May 14, 2008 -- BidForGreen, a well-known biodiesel logistics company, has announced that its on-line Touring Solutions is ready for business at www.bidforgreen.com.

"In providing our logistical services for music tours, we found that there was a need for an on-line touchstone, where tours could log on, store documents and have a repository for their tour information," said Wiley. "Touring solutions is a wonderful 'desktop' for those road warriors."

From any computer, a user can log in and access their documents, an updated tour routing schedule, access green news and communicate with BidForGreen about fueling needs. Future expansions will allow the spot to become a musician's "home away from home," with email communications and other functionality.

Touring Solutions is also able to be re-branded for music agencies and record labels, allowing them to put the "green" focus on their company.

BidForGreen provides logistical support to music tours, such as Willie Nelson, Styx and Brett Dennen, and for movie and television production companies, such as NBC Universal and the TV show CSI. The company provides educational services, and focuses on making sure that suppliers are qualified under both ASTM and the BQ-9000 standard

BidForGreen also provides quality green content on the site as well, with blogs from the likes of Tommy Shaw of Styx, Tony Jones and Dallas star Larry Hagman, industry views, and a video section.

BidForGreen has operations in Missouri, California, Connecticut and Texas. For more information, contact Dale Wiley or Robert Wood at (417) 723-0301 or dale @ americangreenholdings.com.
