San Diego, CA (PRWeb) January 5, 2004 -- Zanadoo, a San Diego based ISP now offers reseller accounts as well as virtual dedicated servers that allow people to open their own web hosting business at a fraction of the cost of starting a traditional business.

For as little as nineteen dollars per month a person with no web hosting experience can open their own web hosting company with a Zanadoo reseller account. A Zanadoo reseller account allows a person to sell their own customers hosting with their business name and logo utilizing Zanadoo's software and servers.

As far as the customer is concerned the reseller is selling the hosting, not Zanadoo. Reseller accounts are ideal to for webmasters who want to sell hosting to their clients or people who want to start selling web hosting by it's self.

Zanadoo does not just offer reseller accounts. For more advanced webmasters Zanadoo also offers virtual dedicated servers. A virtual dedicated server is just like a dedicated server, but with out the big price tag. With a virtual dedicated server a person still has full root access and can control all aspects of the server. Zanadoo Virtual Dedicated Servers even come fully loaded with industry standard hosting software.
